

EDITORIAL

This edition of PHARMAVISION brings together the events and activities that brought our faculty and students together over the past months — a glimpse into a busy and engaged academic term.

Seminars, workshops, and collaborative initiatives across the department reflect a shared enthusiasm for learning and growth that extends well beyond the classroom. This issue also celebrates a proud moment on the sports front, with our teams securing well-earned victories that reflect the same spirit of teamwork and determination we value in academics. Each event captured in these pages tells a small part of a larger story: one of curiosity, competition, and a Pharmacy community that continues to show up for one another. We hope this issue offers not just a record of what happened, but a sense of the energy behind it. Your feedback and ideas are always welcome as we look ahead to what's next. Thank you for being part of it.

Warm Regards!
Dr. Sadia Kashif
